TALK OF THE TOWN

Mrs. Leon Royce, who has been visiting friends in Barre, has returned to her home in Northfield.

Miss L. B. Rice has returned to her home at 45 Maple avenue, after visiting cousins and friends at Washington. A funeral service for Mrs. Alexander Bissett of Westerville, whose sudden death at the age of 64 years occurred at her home in Westerville Wednesday forenoon, was held at the hotel last evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Fred McNeil, pastor of the Granville Presbyterian church, officiating. A number of the deceased's friends from Barre and Granville were present at the service. Later the funeral party accompanied the remains to Barre, when they were taken at 1:15 o'clock over the Central Vermont railroad to Westbury, N. H., where interment was made to-day. Among those who went to Westbury were Mr. Bissett and son, Forbes Bissett.

After looking over the situation along the river near Blackwell street, the aldermanic committee of the whole has decided that the city can worry along for another year without lifting the water main from the Smith, Whitcomb & Cook millpond and stringing it over the Blackwell street bridge. It developed that the water pipe has rested in the stream for some years without interfering seriously with the demands of customers across the river and members of the council feel that the money which the project involves can be spent to better advantage elsewhere. The proposal to span the main across the bridge and build a sidewalk on the south side of the structure was fathered by the city engineer and the water superintendent at the aldermanic session Tuesday night. According to their estimate the work could be done at a cost of $100 or thereabouts.

Street signs authorized by the city council several weeks ago were located yesterday at the Brook street intersection of North Main street and at the junction of Washington, Elm and North Main streets. In themselves the signs are attractive but together, with gold leaf letters inscribed against a background of black. Distances to such points as Burlington, Montreal, Montpelier, St. Johnsbury, the White Mountains, Williamstown, White River Junction and Boston are plainly marked on the boards and because the main thoroughfare is much frequented by tourists these days the guides will fill a long-felt want. The signs were painted by William Averill, who is working on a series of "Danger" signs to be posted in front of the several city schoolhouses as soon as school sessions are resumed. The "Danger" signs were authorized more than a year ago.

Isaac D. Rice, who has been passing a few weeks in Barre as a guest at the home of Dr. W. F. Mann on Washington street and with other relatives in this locality, left this forenoon for his home in Marion, Mass. The occasion of Mr. Rice's visit to Barre was the marriage of his great-granddaughter, Miss Ivo Mann, who is now Mrs. A. E. Scott. His trip from Marion to Barre was uneventful and in starting for home to-day he did not anticipate any discomforts that are apt to interfere with older people when they journey. Mr. Rice is a brother of the late Eli T. Rice, for many years a prominent tailor here. Last spring his son, Dr. Alger W. Rice, passed away and he is now making his home with his daughter-in-law. In the good old-fashioned meaning of that much-abused term, Mr. Rice is a total abstainer. Not in a long life of usefulness has he felt the need of fermented stimulants, nicotine, tea or coffee. At home in Marion he is employed about town as a carpenter.
